

The New Zealand National Poisons Centre (NPC) is seeking to appoint a dynamic individual into a role as a Medical/Clinical Toxicologist - Deputy Director to provide clinical governance and oversight of the centre's activities and poison centre-based consultations to healthcare professionals.

The NPC is the only service of its kind in New Zealand, serving a population of 5 million people. It delivers a 24/7 clinical poisoning information assessment and advice service to members of the public and healthcare professionals. NPC also maintains an extensive online poisons information database called TOXINZ.

This is an interesting and challenging leadership role in an exciting and new chapter for the NPC. You will be rewarded with the opportunity to work within a highly recognised organisation in New Zealand with a supportive, established team of well-regarded professionals.

For more information about the role please visit:

<https://www.otago.ac.nz/humanresources/otago829482>

To apply online please visit:

<https://otago.taleo.net/careersection/2/jobdetail.ftl?lang=en&job=2101141>

Enquiries about this opportunity can be sent to: adam.pomerleau@otago.ac.nz