The Department of Emergency Medicine at UCSF Fresno in conjunction with Central California Faculty Medical Group is seeking additional core faculty members in Medical Toxicology. Our emergency medicine residency program was founded in 1974, with 46 EM residents in a PGY1-4 format and supported by UCSF and Community Regional Medical Center (CRMC) in Fresno, California.

CRMC has 630 beds with an average of 120,000 ED visits last year, while being amongst the busiest Level One Trauma Centers in California. Our ED sees the most critically ill patients in California, leading to a wide array of poisonings, overdoses and envenomations that we routinely consult on. Our inpatient Medical Toxicology consultation service provides 24/7/365 care for patients of all age groups with support from CRMC and the UCSF Fresno EM department. As well supervising residents on the inpatient toxicology service, we also participate in teaching toxicology to emergency medicine, internal medicine, pediatrics residents and critical care medicine fellows through lectures and SIM lab activities.

Our faculty group consists of 45 full time residency trained board certified emergency physicians. Applicants must be board certified in Emergency Medicine, board certified (or eligible) in Medical Toxicology, and must be able to obtain a California medical license at time of hire.

Fresno is the 5th largest city in California and nestled below the foothills of the Sierra Nevada Mountains. The heart of California's agricultural region, Fresno is also a dynamic, multicultural city with a vibrant creative community and ever-expanding food scene. Enjoy farmer's markets, festivals, and parks in addition to the many sporting opportunities for outdoor enthusiasts, including great hiking, mountain biking, fishing, kayaking, trail running, and cycling. Fresno is ideally located for convenient getaways to the majestic Sierra (60 minutes away), as well as the scenic Central Coast, just two and one-half hours away. Fresno is the only major city in the country with proximity to three national parks: Sequoia, Kings Canyon and Yosemite.
